

Udo Becker

Udo Becker joined the European Space Agency in 2001, where he became in charge of the GSTP as manager; his duties also include the management of the European Harmonisation process, as well as the ESA-EC (European Commission) cooperation on space technology.

Since 2009, Udo Becker is Head of the Product Development and General Support Technology Programme (GSTP) Division, at the Directorate of Technical and Quality Management of the European Space Agency. Before joining the ESA, Udo Becker held several positions with space industry in Germany between 1984 and 2001, including Project Manager and Head of Space Equipment Engineering. He has an Engineering Degree from the Technical University of Berlin.