

Domantas Bručas

Dr. Domantas Bručas has graduated at Vilnius Gediminas Technical University BSc degree in Aeronautics Mechanics in 2002, MSc in Transportation Management in 2004 and PhD in Measurement Engineering in 2008. Has been involved in multiple scientific and engineering project in fields of measurement engineering and aeronautics. At the moment mostly involved in research and development of the unmanned areal vehicles systems, satellite components and its implementation. Presently holds the position of Associate d Professor at Vilnius Gediminas Technical University and the position of director of non-governmental research organization Space Science and Technology Institute.