

Lauri Kimmel

Lauri Kimmel, B.Sc. in Computer Science

Being in software development business since 2003 he has wide experience in software engineering including agile methods, analysis, design, programming and testing. Joined Logica as solutions architect in 2010 and has been working on several projects in space domain for customers like ESA, Astrium and University of Tartu. Since autumn 2011 he is one of the mentors in Estonian first space mission ESTCube-1 and responsible for mission control system development. In his everyday work he is focusing strongly on agile development methodologies, modern standards and open source software.