

Zdravko KOLEV

Zdravko KOLEV joined Frontex Research and Development Unit in august 2007 as seconded national expert from Bulgarian Border Police with rang chief border police inspector, since July 2010 became a Research officer in the same unit. His experience includes eighteen years service in various positions at the Bulgarian Air Defence, NAVY and Border Police. His background has always been connected with operational usage and assessment of technologies relevant to border control, communications and surveillance. His area of expertise and interest at Frontex is EUROSUR (European border surveillance) and Remote sensing and detection technologies in particular. In 2010 RPAS International presented him with the Catherine Fargeon Award.