

Prof. Junichiro Kawaguchi

*Senior Fellow,
Japan Aerospace Exploration Agency, the Institute of Space and Astronautical Science
Japan*

Professor Kawaguchi finished the post graduate school, University of Tokyo in 1983, when he received the Degree of Engineering. Since then, he has been engaged in the Planetary Exploration at the Institute of Space and Astronautical Science. He is currently at a full Professor position there, and at a Senior Fellow position at the Japan Aerospace Exploration Agency (JAXA). He is a former Hayabusa mission project manager, and he accomplished the world's first sample and return from a near Earth asteroid.